About the talks

Information on the talks will be provided as soon as we have more information.

Who should attend

This day would be particularly beneficial to those who work in both a clinical and non-clinical setting such as; Child and Adolescent Psychiatrists and Psychologists, Speciality Doctors, Clinical leads, Nurse Practitioners, Educational Psychologists, Social Workers, Sexual Health and Wellbeing Workers, and those that work with children and young people affected with mental health issues and the topic in hand.

This particular event is not aimed at parents.

About the speakers

Dr Helen Griffin

BA (Hons) Social Science, PA Dip, NVQ4,
Foren.Psy.D, CPsychol

Helen is a Senior Practitioner and Head of Research with G-map. She is a Chartered Forensic Psychologist, and a member of the Division of Forensic Psychology, and holds a BPS approved certificate in Trauma Treatments. Helen is registered with the Health and Care Professional Council (HCPC) and the British Psychological Society (BPS). She is one of the authors of the AIM2 assessment tool, for use with young people who display sexually harmful behaviour. In addition to undertaking direct assessments and therapeutic work with young people, Helen has provided consultation and liaison to carers and professionals. Helen is also responsible for psychometric testing at G-map and for research that G-map have been involved in to further develop this area. Prior to joining G-map in January 2006, Helen's work experience included working with socially excluded young people, youth work and research completed for the Youth Justice Trust and Youth Justice Board. Helen has published articles and book chapters around this field of work and has peer-reviewed articles.
